This special edition of the SUN is being printed especially for the more than 1300 award winners of the Congress of Freedom. We hope you will enjoy it and show your copy to your local editor, who will be happy to recognize your award.

Yes, I know that many editors do not appreciate our efforts to restore sanity to government through rigid adherence to the original intent of our Founding Fathers who gave us our Constitution, but even if the editor disagrees with you, he is usually willing to publicize any recognition given one of the citizens of his town or city. Try him anyhow!

I know, too, that most of you are saying, "Now what on earth have I done to merit an award? All my small efforts seem so futile. There are others who do so much, and win no recognition."

I like this spirit in our award winners, but I assure you some one was watching your "small" efforts, and thought them fine enough to warrant an award. Nominations literally poured in this year, many of them after nominees had been notified, because of this spirit of feeling a neighbor had done a better job than the recipient.

We have tried in this session of the Congress of Freedom to turn the spotlight on the great State of Texas, drawing heavily on Texas speakers. We have some marvelous speakers and it is a foregone conclusion that the Congress will be fruitful.

Our key-note, Col. Jack Mohr, is an out-of-stater (see a resume of his life on page 4) and he is here because Dr. A. B. McReynolds, a C of F board member, says "he tops all the speakers I have heard."

You will notice that there is a question and answer period after most of the speakers. We sometimes try to crowd in too many speakers. Audience participation is almost impossible. We believe we have a flexible program this year which will prove enjoyable.

Thank you for coming to the convention, if you are in Amarillo as you receive this—and if you're receiving this via mail because you could not come, we thank you, too, for your efforts in behalf of God and Country. If you feel we are helping to draw our Constitutionallists a little closer together, join us! An envelope will be enclosed in the packet you receive. And if you are unable to contribute, don't worry about it. If there's one thing we libertarians do understand, it is the fact that most of us are long on love of God and Country, and short on cash. But we will keep on keeping on, and pray that God will bless all our efforts.

AWARD WINNERS LISTED

Names of award winners, listed by States, begin on page 8. We regret the omission of the name of Mrs. Juanita Sizemore of Orlando, Fla., nominated by Mrs. C. T. Schwalb of Vero Beach.

Samples of award winning work, cartoons, letters to editor, editorials, petitions, feature stories, are used throughout this issue.

Mrs. Mary D. Cain, Summit, Miss., editor, chairman of The Congress of Freedom, Inc., announces that the Congress of Freedom will be held at Quality Motel, Amarillo, Texas, Sept. 17-18. The event will honor J. C. Phillips, noted editor of the Borger, Texas, News-Herald, as Man of the Year.

He was a prisoner of the Communists, was tortured, stood before a People's Court, endured efforts to "brainwash" him, and faced a firing squad. In 1953 he worked with American servicemen returning from Communist prison camps of North Korea and Manchuria. As a re-

Wallace To Run Unless Outlined Steps Taken

President Nixon will have to stop busing school children and build up a defensive military position second to none if he does not want to face George C. Wallace in the 1972 presidential campaign, the Alabama governor said Wednesday night.

The climination of school busing and the military defense posture were two of four major tasks Wallace outlined for the President to accomplish. Wallace also said Nixon would have to bring back neighborhood schools and bring about a tax reduction for the average American.

"They should be easy for Mr. Nixon to do and I hope he does them said Wallace.

Wallace outlined the steps in an interview on "Newsprobe 71" on the Alabama education television network.

One Wallace aide said that by outlining the specific steps the President must take, Wallace was "drawing the line in the dust."

However, the Alabama governor said he was keeping his options open and said he still was interested in entering primaries in Florida, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

"I am interested in continuing to have both national parties thinking about what I might do," said Wallace.

On the home front, Wallace said the current session of the Alabama Legislature has "a

HYPOCRISY OF SUPREME COURT

MEMBERS

On April 20 the Supreme Court handed down its unanimous opinion in the Charlotte case — an opinion that sanctioned compulsory busing in the South. That opinion has done a good deal to undermine public support of public education. As a direct consequence, many parents are desperately trying to find places for their children in private schools. Such parents have been told by the self-righteous that in spite of the Court's opinion in the Charlotte case, and in spite of the declining quality of public education, they owe it to their community and to public education to keep their children in public schools.

Given the general thrust of recent high court decisions regarding compulsory integration, the thought occurred to us that perhaps the Justices themselves do not care much about the quality of public education. Surely one indicator of the Justices' collective belief in the value of quality public education is the degree to which they have enrolled their own children in public schools. So with the assistance of the Associated Press, we have asked each Justice whether he sent, or sends, his children to public or private elementary and secondary schools. These are the results:

—Justice Hugo Black: Both sons attended private elementary school and public high school. Daughter attended a private school.

—Justice Harry Blackmun: Failed to answer repeated inquiries.

—Justice William Brennan: According to his secretary, he "refuses to answer the question."

—Chief Justice Warren Burger: Son attended public schools. Daughter attended public and private schools.

—Justice William O. Douglas: Son and daughter attended public schools.

—Justice John Harlan: Failed to answer repeated inquiries.

—Justice Thurgood Marshall: Both sons attended private elementary schools and now are in private secondary schools.

—Justice Potter Stewart: Two sons and daughter all attended public and private schools.

—Justice Byron White: Son and daughter attend private schools.

It seems logical to assume that the three Justices who did not answer the question — particularly the one who refused to enroll their children in private schools, for at least part of their education: Otherwise the Justices would have had no compunctions about answering the question. So we may conclude that of the nine Justices, only one — Justice Douglas — has carried out his alleged commitment to public education by keeping his children strictly in public schools.

"What you are speaking so loudly that I can't hear what you say," Emerson wrote. His observation applies to the Justices of the Supreme Court — and to Federal District Judge Robert R. Merhige, Jr., who currently has a son in private school. They and their supporters piously intone their practiced litany about how important public education is to the American community. Indeed, it is. Yet the preponderant attitude among the Justices of the Supreme Court seems to be that public education is not so important — not so good? — that their children cannot do without it. They speak ever so loudly about what they think of public education by what they do with their kids: By and large, they send them to private schools. Perhaps that is because they don't want their children used as pawns in the latest silly game dreamed up by the Federal courts. — Richmond (Va.) News Leader

Good Men Aren't Popular

By Tom Anderson

thesis in his book, "Lee and Grant." I haven't read it I would almost as soon read one on Christ, authored by Hugh Hefner. Lee's "weakness" was that he was too good! The epitome of that was Christ. If He hadn't been so good, He wouldn't have been crucified. Nor risen from the dead.

We don't like our leaders too good, that's true. Grant might have been elected President, had he chosen to run. He was just low-grade enough to make it. Even in those days most people didn't cotton to people who were too good. And that was before the teachers, preachers, press, bogh tube, Marxists and nihilists had engaged in their onslaught against God, family, country and morality. Senator Robert Taft I (Jr. doesn't deserve to carry the name) was too good to get the Republican nomination for President. He was a patriot, gentleman, Christian and scholar. Since then we've had in no particular order, crooks, philanderers, pro-Marxists and atheists as Presidents, and some combinations of those qualities. And a homosexual nominated by one of the major parties.

Adoration of the Christ-like Lee has always run in our family. Since 1862, that is. On Lee's birthday several years ago, the smartest and most attractive nephew I ever had (there's no such thing as equality) climbed out the attic window of his two-story home to attach the Confederate flag to the roof. He fell backward to his death. My older brother really died that day, too, although they didn't bury him until years later.

Little Edwin was the rare combination of Straight A student, athlete, humorist and "most popular boy" who knew most of the answers and also the questions. One day his daddy took him to a baseball game. Full of unbridled enthusiasm as always, he was standing cheering or booing as the case may be, when the man behind him "bellowed": "Sit down, boy!" The boy turned, with as infectious a grin as you ever encountered, and replied: "Mister, at a ballgame, it's every man for himself!"

Our crying need today is for a president who is "too good" to be President — instead of a conniving opportunist. And for about 92 Senators, 478 members of the House of Representatives, and nine Supreme Court Justices who are "too good." Then maybe we could save our country and our freedom.

"All we need to do is to understand each other," prattle the One Worlders. They are working night and day to bring about one citizenship, one language, one "religion." This is colossal stupidity, unChristian and the work of the Devil. God dispersed the people deliberately, gave them different tongues and different color and characteristics.

Familiarity breeds contempt, personally and world wide. The better we understand most people, the less we like them. Polls prove that most Europeans like Americans better than they do their European neighbors. The Italians dislike the Spaniards, the Belgians dislike the Dutch, the Scots abhor the Britons, the Northern Irish fight the Southern Irish, and the French despise the Germans more than they do anybody — except other Frenchmen.

Britain's Health Council deplors the fact that 120,000 out-of-wedlock babies are born in Britain each year. This has brought on an intense drive, not for morality, but for birth control measures. One promotion piece — and that is indeed an apt term for it — depicts Casanova in the act of seducing an almost nude girl. The caption: "Casanova never got anyone into trouble."

Another leaflet issued by the Council depicts a very pregnant bride at the altar saying: "I did," instead of "I do."

Whatever happened to the so-called Congressman and Harlem Globetrotter, Adam Clayton Powell? No, he's not in jail, where he should be.

Powell has not been prosecuted because the Nixon administration is afraid of losing the Negro vote. Nixon didn't get any Negro vote, but evidently he intends to. The Justice Department prepared the case against Powell long ago, and it adds up to 50 potential criminal charges. More than 150 years in jail terms, and $300,000 in fines. The Negro ex-congressman not only stole great sums of money, and then bragged about it, but then invaded the House Labor Committee file room, with his cohorts, and stole piles of incriminating documents, while thumbing his nose at the many witnesses, none of whom had the courage to stop the raid.

Wonder why the young "idealists" crusading against the "Establishment" don't oppose congressional crooks like Adam Clayton Powell?

Ex-president Johnson helped set up a deal for some Austin cronies which took the taxpayers for several million. Johnson has spent a lifetime doing that. But the Nixon Administration has evidently decided that it's "good politics" to look the other way and let the predators have their ill-begotten gravy.

There should be a congressional investigation — not only of the Austin manipulation, but of the outrageous riches Lyndon Johnson acquired while on the public payroll.

And incidentally, how did Richard Nixon get so rich so quickly? Remember him when?

The annual tax returns of all public employees should be made public information. The American Way Features

To President Nixon:

We, the undersigned, do beg you, in the names of those who have fought and died to help preserve us, "one nation under God", to reconsider your plans to visit Red China, an enemy who has vowed to wipe us from the face of the earth.

As a people who pride themselves on being anti-God, the Communists have never kept a promise or abided by any treaty they have signed. What earthly good do you expect to come to Americans by your counselling with an avowed enemy? Have we not lost 'face' AND blood enough already?

urer. The group is dedicated to rendering "immediate" assistance to widows and orphans of local law enforcement officials and members of the fire department killed in performance of their duties.

James Clayton Phillips was born Dec. 22, 1896 on the old Santa Fe Trail which forms the Main Street of Council Grove, Kansas. He has edited and managed the Borger News-Herald since July 27, 1931. Prior to that he served as claim adjuster for the Santa Fe following his discharge on Sept. 22, 1919, from Troop D, First Squadron, 112th U. S. Cavalry. He continued with the Santa Fe until he moved to Panhandle to accept a position as auditor of the Nunn-Warren Publishing Co., serving in this capacity five years, assisting in the accounting and management of numerous small daily and weekly papers owned by the Nunn-Warren partnership. He came to the News-Herald well prepared for over-all editing and managing. He is known and much loved throughout the nation for his fearless battle against the UN and his willingness to give valuable space to the voice of the people, nation-wide, in letters to the editor, reprinted sermons, lectures, essays or poems. Many of the C of F awards are given on basis of letters or other items clipped from the Borger paper and mailed to the C of F chairman.

His wife is the former Ruth Meyer, and they are the parents of three children, Eugene M. Phillips of Panhandle, J. C., Jr., of Albuquerque and Mrs. Bill Durham (Ruth Courtney) of New Orleans. They have eleven grandchildren and a grandson-in-law.

Mr. Phillips will be awarded his Man of the Year trophy at the banquet on Friday evening, Sept. 17, at which time he will also be the featured speaker.

The Congress of Freedom is drawing heavily on Texas talent for this convention. Other prominent speakers include Capt. Kenneth W. Ryker, executive director of Fort Worth's Freedom Center; famed Dr. Robert Morris of Plano University; John R. (Jack) Zengler, vice-president of the Gill Companies, headquartered in San Antonio, an active American Legionnaire; Dr. Jim Hale; had of the Amarillo John Birch Society; Bill Dwight, a recent graduate of Bob Jones University who will discuss Youth and Conservatism; Mrs. Mel Gabler of Longview, authority on textbooks; and a delightful little award winner from Groves, Mrs. Cecil Almand, who will discuss her letter-writing campaign for men in the armed services.

The awards luncheon will be held Saturday at noon with Dr. Hale the featured speaker. Over 1,000 nominations are being presently processed. Awards go to editors, lecturers, essayists, ministers, poets, cartoonists, letter writers, distributors of patriotic literature, etc.

The awards will be mailed to those unable to attend the Congress of Freedom but since so many Texans are being recognized, it is believed the Congress will be well attended.

Mr. Phillips will be introduced by Judge Glenn O. Young of Sapulpa, Okla., a C of F Board member, and Lt. Col. Mohr will be introduced by Dr. A. B. McReynolds of Brandon, Fla., also a Board member. Other speakers will be introduced by board members attending.

Members of the Board, in addition to Chairman Cain, Young and McReynolds, include Dr. Hugh Ramsey of Bloomington, Ind., vice-chairman; State Rep. Tullius Brady, Brookhaven, Miss.; secretary; Oswald Temple, Jr., Baton Rouge, La., treasurer; Mrs. John Faulk, Jr., Selma, Ala., president of WCG; Congressman John R. Rarick of Louisiana (who unfortunately has a conflicting engagement); State Rep. Jim True, Gulfport, Miss.; Mrs. Jane Crain, Corpus Christi, Texas; Dr. James R. Garber, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Anna McKinney, Dedham, Mass.; Brig. Gen. Richard B. Moran, Ret., Kerrville, Texas; Mrs. Jessica Payne, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Willard Hedrick, Houston, Texas; Dr. A. G. Blazey, Washington, Ind.; Milton M. Lory, Sioux City, Iowa; Dr. Marquis O. Nelson, Tulsa, Okla.; George Soule, New Orleans, La.; and John H. Wisner, Jr., Summit, N. J.

GOV. WALLACE—good chance of being a failure." He warned the lawmakers he would not call a special session except for "grave reasons."

He criticized a group of senators for continuing to filibuster his highway bond issue and warned he would not call a special session for highway needs.

"If they don't pass a road bond program, there won't be one," said Wallace. He said the state would have to get by on existing revenues and new construction would be virtually eliminated.

"I don't want a special session," he said. "We don't have money for a special session. The Legislature already has spent $2 million this year when it could have gotten by on $1 million if that small group of senators had not talked so much."

Wallace said he would approve a smaller bond issue than the $135 million one he proposed and said he was not opposed to the people voting on a bond issue.

Wallace also made his first comment on an alleged threat he made last week to transfer seven white children from a predominantly black school in Montgomery County.

He said the reports were "blown all out of proportion. All I did was meet with the students and parents and promised to help them every way I could," said Wallace.

EXCLUSIVE TO THE ENTERPRISE

(by PEGGY J. SMITH, EAST ORANGE, N. J.)

(Special Reporter For This Newspaper)

Many things are heartbreaking in our present-day Republic but the one that has the most devastating effect on the disbeliever and righteous indignation to our eyes is when we have met a man of the highest credentials, talked with him, and listened to him give one of the finest Americanist speeches we have heard in a long time, even brandishing criticism on some members of his audience for not holding their hands over their hearts during the Pledge of Allegiance to our flag, a man who is a member of the Boy Scouts of America national council, treasurer of the council's finance committee. He is also president of Invest-In America, a member of the National Advisory Board of the MacArthur Memorial Foundation, a life member of both the Allentown (Pa.) Flag Day Committee and the Liberty Bell Shrine of Allentown. He has been the recipient of countless awards in his life, in honor of his various activities to stress Americanism and patriotism he was presented a rarely-awarded medal by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge. It was only the third time the Free Enterprise Exemplar Medal was awarded. He was given the 1971 American Citizen Award by the Federation of American Citizens of German Descent in the U.S.A., Inc. on June 6, 1971, presented at Schuylkill Park, North Ziegler, N. J. This is where we met, and listened to him speak "Americanism". Our heart goes out in deep compassion for the wonderful friends who invited him to speak also to our Governor, William Cahill, who proclaimed June 6th as the 18th annual German-American Day in N.J., all the patriotic citizens of New Jersey and Americans of true blue quality everywhere, in Vietnam, in Vietnam, and especially those who gave their last ounce of courage in a no-win war, created by men wearing two hats and red ice running through their veins.

Who is this man we speak of? He is Zenon C. R. Hansen, Chairman of the Board and President of Mack Trucks, Inc., who reportedly recently made a preliminary agreement with Soviet Russia for a $1.4 BILLION facility. This appears to be nothing short of unabashed TREASON. The deal was said to have been signed on May 18, 1971 but was kept secret until June 17, 1971. This is an insult of the most blatant order to be foisted upon the American people. The deadline for White House approval is June 25, 1971. That doesn't give us much time. We pray that enough pressure is brought to bear on President Nixon to stop this apparent subversion and that the Defense Department will blackball this as they did a similar proposal between Ford and Moscow a year or so ago. Early this year Retired Air Force General Curtis E. LeMay predicted that within 18 months Russia will serve a "Capitulation-or-else" ultimatum on the United States and that President Nixon will have no choice but to surrender and succumb to Soviet demands.

A continuous eating away at American freedoms convinces us that General LeMay may be wrong. It will probably happen a whole lot sooner, if it hasn't already. After all, doesn't the government have a right to lie to the American people? There are those who keep saying, "Do something before it is too late." It's been too late for a long, long time and you'd better believe it!

Cartoon in the Daily News June 19 edition shows a huge factory in the background with floor lights shining on the sign—"People's BACKGROUNDS Truck Factory." Flying beside the sign is the Russian flag with the sickle and hammer insignia. In the foreground is a fleet of giant trucks with an obvious Russian Army Officer talking to an American businessman. The significant cartoon is labeled—"THE BETTER TO BURY US BY?" (Ed.)

Dear Mrs. Smith:

First let me thank you for sending me the copy of your article which was published in the Southwest Virginia Enterprise. I appreciate very much the courtesy of your sending it to me.

Now may I tell you that not only recently but for a long time I have been wearing an executive crash helmet (per print attached) which is very useful in not having my head injured by "pot shots" from individuals such as you. If I were close to you I can assure you you would have to have one also; except it would need a face guard as you would get a damn good punch in the nose which, I understand, is okay with the new women's lib ideas.

A few years ago I made what your article proves to be a profound statement, and that is, "There is more pollution coming from the minds and mouths of some politicians and the columns of our press than is being created by the entire population." Recently someone observed, "I have no doubt that most of Russia's triumphs have been produced on America's typewriters." I think writing a personal letter and finding out more about a subject before using unethical blackmail just because you have the availability of the press would be a more proper way to proceed. You have demonstrated your type and therefore I refuse to engage in any correspondence debate.

I would like to close by telling you that there is an old Indian prayer which reads, "Grant that I may not criticize my neighbor until I have walked a mile in his moccasins," and in addition tell you that regardless of your degrading article I'll match my services to this country, my patriotism against yours - or anyone you want to bring forth - any day of the week and twice on Sundays.

Sincerely yours,

ZCRH

Dearest Mary:

Thought the enclosed might interest you. Our mutual friend, Frank Capell, suggested I lend same to very selected patriots. Copies have gone to J.C. MR. AND MRS. CLINTON G. HALL

When your Chairman of the Congress of Freedom was fumbling about, trying to plan for a convention in Amarillo from this great distance, someone nominated Mrs. Carolyn G. Hall of Amarillo. Her notification of award winning was routine but what a bountiful harvest was reaped! This wonderful lady offered her services and became our local arrangements chairman. If there's a detail she has missed, I'm not aware of it.

When she was asked for a biographical sketch and a picture, she wrote: "Please forget it! I am simply a housewife and the mother of one married daughter and a 17 year old son, who recognizes the fact that we are in a spiritual war and that as a Christian I am to 'occupy' myself until He comes again". By way of occupation I have assisted in bringing speakers to Amarillo, have myself spoken to various organizations in the area and acted as the 'poor man's public relations agent' for the conservative organizations and speakers in the area. Setting up press conferences and getting radio and TV people lined up, and blanketing the Tri-State area papers with releases is hardly noteworthy compared to what you and the other fighters are doing. Most of my crusades have been for better government on the local scale. I am simply one of those people who get called on to lend a hand when help is needed. Every town has its Carolyn Hall, and this gal is no different from thousands of others.

Introducing Our Speakers . . .

JOHN R. JACK ZENGLER
Jack Zengler, co-president of GHI Companies, headquartered in San Antonio, has spent an active life fighting communism. His first position in the anti-communist movement came as he became Americanism chairman of the American Legion Post No. 436, Greerown, Ohio, and progressed through a series of local, state and national posts that further his fight. In 1962 Mr. Zengler formed an organization called the "Keep America Free Council" and while president of this group authored and published a pamphlet called "The Hired Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America—Labor Arm of the Communist Party". This booklet was effectively used in rousting out domination from a number of strategic defense plants, and was placed on the recommended reading list on communism by the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion. It was later used in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee by Philip Carey. The "Keep America Free Council" was awarded the George Washington Honor Medal by the Freedom Foundation in 1962 because of the outstanding work done in promoting Constitution Day and making it a national holiday.

After moving to New Braunfels Mr. Zengler became Americanism Chairman for Comal Post No. 179, in which capacity he served for five years. He also served for three years as president of the Comal County Americanism Council. While in Ohio Mr. Zengler produced, hosted and was featured on three radio stations. For some time in New Braunfels he continued in the field of radio as writer-producer and host of a weekly 15-minute radio broadcast under the title of "The American Legion Speaks". Since 1964 most of Mr. Zengler's activity now is conducted in the John Birch Society, for which he is a Section Leader in New Braunfels and Austin, Texas, as well as a volunteer coordinator for the San Antonio and Austin area.

Mr. and Mrs. Zengler are parents of eight children. Mr. Zengler will speak Friday afternoon on the subject, "There IS a Solution!"

MRS. CECIL ALLMAND

This gracious little lady is featured in detail on page 7. Her letters to our fighting men are a joy to read. She will speak Saturday morning, and you are in for a real treat.

Dear Fellow American:

I want to first apologize for the lack of a more personalized letter. Due to the volume of correspondence and the necessity to economize, we feel this informality is necessary.

Your warm support at the time of my arrest for ripping down the Viet Cong flag encouraged me to get further involved. Consequently, I combined my efforts with those of other Vietnam Veterans throughout the country, and we jointly formed "The Vietnam Veterans For a Just Peace". The attached newspaper editorial will provide you with a brief glimpse of our goal and current activities. (Article enclosed.)

Last fall you registered concern about my arrest and asked me to keep you informed about the situation. In conjunction with this request, I am today making a most urgent plea for your much needed assistance. In the name of the patriotic American principle that we all treasure so dearly, please join with the Vietnam Veterans For a Just Peace in eradicating the flag of the enemy from our streets and parks.

On 17 May 1971 Congressman Bow and seventeen concerned representatives submitted House Resolution 8453 (enclosed) to the 92nd Congress. This Resolution is currently in Congressman Emanuel Celler's Committee on the Judiciary. This Resolution will die in Committee if as Americans we do not take positive action.

THIS IS WHAT YOU CAN DO:

These Congressmen compose the Committee on the Judiciary: U. S. House of Representatives, 2137 Rayburn Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20515

Write one or more of the Committee members. Tell them that you are greatly concerned about House Resolution 8453.

Write and/or call your Congressman and ask him to register his support for this Bill.

Call your local American Legion and VFW Posts and request a lobby effort on their parts.

And last of all, but even more important, let Congressman Bow and his colleagues know that we owe them a debt of gratitude, not so much for sponsoring the Resolution but, for once again reminding us that patriotism in America still lives.

As veterans we plead for your support in this most urgent matter. As concerned Americans we will together wipe out the "Silent" and stand forward as "The Majority."

Hundreds of newsy letters sent to servicemen by Groves woman

LETTERS TO SERVICEMEN — Receiving and answering hundreds of letters to servicemen in Vietnam is no small task—but it's one that Mrs. Cecil Allmand of 5286 Park avenue in Groves has been doing since World War II. "It's just one way of expressing our appreciation to these men for the sacrifices they're making for us," Mrs. Allmand explained. (Watkins photo.)

Bits of newsy gossip . . . of what's happening in Port Arthur and maybe Austin and elsewhere in the state . . . of mutual friends . . . and even of total strangers . . . all these things are included in Mrs. Cecil Allmand's letters to servicemen overseas and all worth reading because "It's a letter from home."

Take for instance this paragraph:

"Some things I do raise my husband's eyebrows. I passed by the Port of Beaumont after leaving a seminar at the Courthouse. Never saw so many helicopters in my life — all neatly lined up on the wharf. Yesiree, the helicopters were straight from Vietnam! No wonder they sent them back for repairs — they didn't have a propeller on a single one of them. I wanted to go in and see if some of you guys were hidden in a few of them. The guard asked me if I had a pass. I told him I had a paper from Judge Buford's courtroom. I did, too: 67 pages of the Proposed Revision of the Penal Code of Texas!"

In her May letter, Mrs. Allmand described some of her experiences at Sam Rayburn where she'd caught a big bass and after landing him had an argument with her husband over his weight. She insisted he weighed six pounds — he'd landed and only three, and cautioned her "to sit down before you turn us overin this 40-foot hole. Hand me the fish and I'll string him up." He put him on the string and dropped him over the side of the boat into the water. "I was horrified to see my six-pound fish go swimming off waiving his string behind him." Her husband had forgotten to tie the string to the boat. She also recalled a Port Neches couple, who had been hoping from one hole to the other. "She threw her yellow beetle over the top of a tree," she wrote. "It just barely touched the water and it jumped a big bass and swallowed the beetle. Her husband yelled for her to start reeling and tighten her line. She went to work, reeling the bass to the top of the tree. Well, her husband climbed the tree, remarking: it didn't look right to leave a bass hanging in a tree — poor sportsmanship or something."

Concerning a trip to Austin with a load of Port Arthur Senior Citizens, Mrs. Allmand's letter said: "Bus trip was not eventful — except for one incident. A Senior Citizen stood up — took off his coat — and by George, he had torn the seat of his pants —

a right nice slit — his shorts peeking out. This caused a stir among the ladies across the aisle. We hunted pine to fix him up — decided against that since we were unable to find anything but straight pins, would have to keep him standing up all the time. Well, wouldn't you be afraid to sit down with a pin in your pants? We didn't tell him — just saw that he kept his coat on; which was no small matter since the temperature hung around 80.

"The reception was a bang-up success — food all over the place — politicians and wives. Dr. Paul Meyer, Port Arthur pediatrician, was master of ceremonies. He tried to quiet us down to introduce the Governor. He got disgusted and said over Mike with some strong language. "If — Governor, I can't quiet this d— mess down. They are worse than the Tower of Babel."

Here's what Mrs. Allmand wrote concerning the departure of a Port Arthur man for the scene of action in Vietnam:

"Donna gave us a report on Renny last Sunday. She said he was so happy to be on his way to Vietnam. Now this was the first time we had heard anyone say this. Donna said we would be happy too, if we were in San Francisco and were propositioned three times in one block. We were real glad Renny passed his survival test. He was so scared that he ran three miles back to the base. Renny said he would feel safer with 270,000 other G.I.'s. I forgot to ask her what the proposition was."

And they're most welcomed by those boys in the Armed Forces who wait eagerly to see if one of Mrs. Allmand's letters arrive in the mail.

The Port Arthur woman's letter writing began in 1939. Her first letter was written to an American pilot, flying with the Royal Air Force in England. Later when the US became involved in World War II, he returned to the States, joined the US Air Force and was stationed with the same unit in Egypt with Dr. Paul R. Meyer of Port Arthur.

By the time her son enlisted in World War II, Mrs. Allmand was writing from 60 to 75 letters to servicemen.

Then the Vietnam war came along. Her first letter was to a Lt. Don Driver, a Green Beret, in the early 1960's.

Mrs. Allmand's first letter writing efforts were confined to servicemen from Central Bas-ist church of which she is a member. Other names were supplied by friends of men overseas.

The letters, according to Mrs. Allmand, are "always a joy to receive. Some are filled with hate, others with joy at coming home, still others with pity and anxiety at what's happening in Indo China."

Of the servicemen she knew personally and heard from regularly, about 15 were killed in the three wars, World War II, Korean and Vietnam.

"The purpose of my writing is to let these servicemen know we appreciate the sacrifices they are making for us here at home. We have a prayer list of the men. Probably the greatest reward we receive is a call or a visit from the parents of the boys who receive our letters. It is reassuring to them to know that others are interested in their sons."

The men, too, according to Mrs. Allmand, have high praise for The Port Arthur News, which is sent to them each Thursday as a courtesy from the Port Arthur Jaycees and The News.

A few years ago Central Baptist church took over the sponsorship of Mrs. Allmand's letter writing by underwriting the cost of mailing and stationery. The church bulletins and church literature are sent each week.

Mrs. Allmand's husband, Cecil Allmand, is a retired machinist from Bethlehem Steel.

He gives his full cooperation to her letter writing.

The Allmands have two married sons, Douglas, a research chemist with Allied Chemical living in New Jersey, and Cecil, manager of Carswell Air Force Credit Union of Fort Worth, and three grandchildren.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

From newspaper accounts and editorial, senatorial and idiotical comments, you might think we are fixing to quit war and settle international fusses hereafter over a ping pong table. Suppositionally this would be less bloody and require cheaper equipment, and by forming leagues and holding tournaments and playoffs, could identify the world's champion power adequately.

And similar benefits could accrue to us peonic slobbs if congressmen and bureaucrats would settle their differences by playing ping pong instead of politics.

Hearing of NEW YORK STATE COMMISSION ON THE QUALITY, COST AND FINANCING OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

Statement of Mrs. Beatrice Mabry for the Joint Committee on Education, comprising a number of education-oriented organizations. — 2.26.1971

Honorable Members of the Fleischmann Commission:

A cockroach demonstrably can count up to six or eight, about the number of progeny hatched from one eggcase. Following the hatching the parent has no further responsibility toward these young marauders — they are strictly on their own. Among higher vertebrates things are different. With mammals — mankind in particular — discipline and training are meant to come into being. But DO they in this, our perverted and subverted, day? Or in our great liberty-founded and liberty-loving country, is the fate of our offspring — and its very survival, if you please — actually being abandoned to the machinations of an all-powerful central government?

This would appear possible from the rising clamor for free child-care centers around the clock, free abortions from all comers on demand, free lunches, free breakfasts, free teacher training, and on and on — down the SOCIALIST primrose path. And such demands are made with a straight face, as if you could develop such dependence on a centralized government and escape totalitarian control; and as if ANYTHING were FREE. Somebody pays for it — in such cases as these, the beleaguered taxpayers. Perhaps we should say payment is made from what is left of tax collections after proliferating tax free foundations have removed their holdings and lush gifts from the shrinking tax rolls.

This commission is involved with the quality of elementary and secondary education. Quality? Education? May I urge that you pause in your hearings through the state and see for yourself what passes for education — of ANY quality — in many schools here in New York City? It seems a point has been reached when the learning process has become a travesty.

The causes are many. Contributing factors include: PERMISSIVENESS among parents and school administrators. NATIONALIZATION of our schools by an ever-enlarging octopus federal government instead of state-control.

POLITICALIZATION or turning of our schools into power-seeking action institutions rather than impartial centers of learning. Even the Supreme Court's holding against school segregation, admittedly based on Socialist Gunnar Myrdal's book, "An American Dilemma," said not a word about integration. Why is this coercion — unwanted by 85% of the people — continued to be enforced. Who is responsible for this unending turmoil — this tactic guaranteed to "create chaos and destroy?"

*According to Ben Holman, Director of Community Relations Service and a Negro, as quoted in "New York Times," 11.16.1969.

New Left, Old Left and other Anti-national agitators — both inside and outside the schools — radicalize the students. Inflaming literature is distributed and put up on bulletin boards inside school buildings, such as (this flyer) for the New York Black Panther Party.

Such contributing factors have helped produce everything from plain school ineffectiveness to outright anarchy among students. In many classes teaching is impossible; school buildings and campuses are turned into shambles; the word "education" is little more than a deceptive charade.

MRS. MEL GABLER

A native of Ennis, Texas, Mrs. Gabler, the former Norma Rhodes, has lived in the Longview-Tyler area most of her life.

Parents of three fine sons, Jim, 26, Paul 24, and Don 19, the Gablers recently had the misfortune to lose their youngest son in a two-car crash. With Christian fortitude they have endured their sorrow.

It was Jim, the oldest son, who triggered Mrs. Gabler's interest in textbooks while he was a student at Texas A&M, working toward his Master's degree in Computer Science. Now a Captain in the US Army Medical Corps, doing computer science work in the Washington, D. C. area, it was during college days that he became concerned about his textbook and showed it to his parents. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gabler were vitally interested and she began to make a serious study of textbooks. She says her chief interest lies in encouraging apathetic parents to take a closer look at their children's education, not to cause trouble but to help solve problems before they become serious.

She concentrates on accumulating evidence and most of her efforts have been on a state level. She has made numerous personal, radio and television appearances in Texas, Alabama, Maryland, Virginia and New Mexico.

Mrs. Gabler never condemns any person or thing but uses actual textbooks, encouraging the parents to express their own opinions. She is considered an authority on textbooks and after you have heard her, you will understand why.

She will speak Saturday at 10 o'clock, and her address will be followed by a question and answer period.

VOUCHER PLAN NOT THE ANSWER

In their zeal to correct the faults in our educational system, many parents are embracing the Voucher Plan without realizing this method of financing education would be "to jump out of the frying pan into the fire." The Voucher Plan is not the answer to the educational problems besetting almost all communities in the nation. It would be a grave mistake to take the administrative powers away from local boards of education and invest state and federal agencies with the power to decide what is best for children in a community whose needs are best understood by members of a local board of education most of whom are parents of school-aged children.

It is commendable that parents concerned about their children's future are pressuring for legislation insuring them the education needed to enjoy "the good life in the American tradition." By espousing the Voucher Plan, these well meaning parents could bring about reverse results. If they believe the propaganda being fed them by advocates of the Voucher Plan, they will be duped into delivering their children a bill of goods which will force socialized education on them.

The voucher system, as recommended by Christopher Jencks, makes possible replacement of local Boards of Education with Educational Voucher Agencies and, even if not replaced, local school boards would be relegated to a secondary, impotent role under an all-powerful community or regional E.V.A. One cannot help but wonder if this is not a deliberate attempt to remove "the real nemesis of the Federal bureaucrats - the tradition of local control" by using a perversion of the voucher plan idea. If so, it will mark the passing from parents' hands of the last vestiges of control they now have over their children's education. It may well be that bureaucrats recognize they can not silence the present public clamor for returning control of education to local school boards. Therefore, to retain control, they are offering the voucher system in a form which eliminates local boards or provides for their absorption into a new local bureaucratic agency, the E.V.A. (Educational Voucher Agency). The powers enumerated by Jencks for E.V.A. make clear who would be in control and it would not be the local taxpaying parent, nor his representative the local school board member.
